

ABSTRACT

5 The present invention discloses a DNA vaccine and the method of preparing the same, which employs DNA recombination technique to co-incorporate a fragment of tumor-associated gene and a fragment of cytokine gene into a vector. The administration of such DNA vaccine can enhance the immune response of the host through the co-expression of tumor-associated protein and cytokine, and thereby achieve the therapeutic effect of inhibiting or retarding tumor growth.